This device can also be used for research into disorientating and confusing animals and insects that use the earth's magnetic field for behavioral patterns, navigation and migration, mating, and other functions. Some researchers claim to have found effects on plant growth using certain frequencies and power levels.

Certain combinations of polarity and pulse repetition rates have also been said to disorient and confuse people. Use caution if employing for these applications.

The following list of pulse frequencies was provided from www.elixa.com/light/nogier.html, and is not a result of our own research. These frequencies are claimed to be used as healing—and experimental—tools in pulsed magnetic force therapy. We make no claims as to the veracity of this information, and this is not a complete list, as research is ongoing.

Pulsed Electromagnetic Therapy is also becoming recognized by 'orthodox' medicine, and making appearances in the mainstream, such as on NBC's "The Dr. Oz Show" (outtakes of which can be seen at www.magnetictherapywerx.com, or do a YouTube search for "pulsed electromagnetic therapy").
